VIRTUAL SERVICES

VIRTUAL OPTIONS FOR DEPOSITIONS, JURY RESEARCH & WITNESS TRAINING

Keep your litigation on track by leveraging Courtroom Sciences' remote capabilities.

Whether you are limiting travel to reduce in-person contact or to lower expenses, Courtroom Sciences, Inc.[®] (CSI) offers multiple technology and virtual solutions to meet your needs for depositions, mediations, witness trainings, and settlement and trial jury research.

REMOTE DEPOSITIONS

Depositions can easily be conducted virtually via desktop videoconferencing. CSI has spent years preparing for situations requiring a shift away from in-person depositions. As a result, CSI is an industry-leader in providing remote/video-conference deposition services and has the technology, people, processes, and capacity to conduct remote/video-conference depositions for your litigation practice.

The CSI Case Management team coordinates all arrangements and details so that law firms may continue business-as-usual. CSI is experienced in using best-in-industry tools to minimize inconvenience and address any technology issues. The case managers at CSI and the court reporters and videographers assigned to your remote/video-conference deposition follow established processes to ensure successful use of software, hardware, and services for audio and video streaming and paperless exhibit management.

To schedule remote/video-conference depositions, email calendar@courtroomsciences.com or call the CSI Case Management team at (877) 784-0004 and select Option #1.

VIRTUAL WITNESS EFFECTIVENESS TRAINING

Courtroom Sciences has adapted and improved our proven Witness Effectiveness Training to conduct remote witness trainings to keep your depositions and trial preparation on schedule. Our virtually delivered program prepares witnesses for plaintiff Reptile attacks and prevents poor deposition testimony, which is the top cause of adverse trial verdicts with high damage awards.

Our analysis of thousands of deposition transcripts reveals that 95% of damaging and/or ineffective testimony can be traced to two specific neuro-psychological errors: 1) cognitive processing errors and 2) emotional-survival response errors. CSI has constructed a sophisticated and tested neuro-psychological training program to prevent these errors from occurring, thus protecting your business from increased economic exposure and vulnerability.

JURYVOICE™ - ONLINE JURY RESEARCH

Courtroom Sciences, Inc. Consultants design individualized online research studies tailored to the specific research objectives for each matter. Some research questions are better tested empirically as opposed to relying on jurors to use introspection. For example, how anchors affect juror damages decisions, whether jurors would view damages differently if liability had been admitted, or how jurors would decide a case if certain evidence had NOT been presented. JuryVoice is ideal for efficiently and accurately testing these and similar questions which require an experimental design exposing comparison groups to different trial scenarios. With JuryVoice, a litigation strategy based on scientific findings can be developed early, informing mediation goals and enhancing trial tactics.

VIRTUAL CORPORATE REP TRAINING

The decision on who should serve as the best Corporate Representatives for your client's business is a critical one. The performance of Corporate Representatives during depositions and trial testimony can be the difference between a positive outcome and enormously negative results. But how can you know who makes the best Corporate Representative? With the fully virtual Courtroom Sciences Corporate Representative Bootcamp.

The virtual CSI Corporate Representative Bootcamp allows organizations to put single or multiple candidates through a customized training program and evaluate their ability to serve as a Corporate Representative. Our program uses scientifically based witness training protocols to specifically improve the testimony of fact or corporate witnesses.

Clients whose Corporate Representative candidates participate in the Courtroom Sciences program have the confidence of knowing who their best Representatives are, and know that they are fully prepared before they are needed. This peace of mind has tremendous value when the stress of litigation strikes.

Contact us today to get your Corporate Representative candidates evaluated and trained with our virtual Bootcamp.
